How does 5G work in Latvia?

On board Latvian port service provider LVR Flote's Varma icebreaker ship, the LMT has deployed 5G connectivity that can be delivered as far as 53km from the base station. Pilot boats and floating drones are all part of an intricate system to broadcast seabed measurements and remote video transmissions.

Is Latvia good at telecommunications?

Kalniņš says that whilst Latvia might not have Ericsson or Nokia like its NATO counterparts, the country has always been good at telecoms. From its radio factories to its engineering university in Riga, developing telecommunications is almost "like a genome in Latvian DNA," he says.

Is 4G a viable alternative to fixed broadband in Latvia?

Indeed, many Latvians eschew a wired broadband connection in their own home in favor of relying on 4G. According to the European Commission, as early as 2017, mobile and fixed services have directly competed, with 4G emerging as an alternative to fixed broadband, particularly in rural areas.

Will Latvia be able to supply drones to Ukraine?

Last year, Latvia proposed the Drone Coalition in conjunction with the UK. The coalition aims to supply drones to the Ukraine. Potapkins says whilst Latvia may not be able to produce heavy military tanks, it can still play its part by innovating drone technologies.

Why is LMT launching a testbed in Riga?

Ingmārs Pūķis, vice president and chief marketing and business development officer at LMT, points out the testbed was launched before the Ukraine invasion in 2022, with the war merely being a “catalyst” for the support the telco has received. The testbed is located at the Ādaži military base, 20km from the center of Riga.
